

The Do Not Call Registry was provided to citizens as an option to not receive phone calls from telemarketers. It is not acceptable for telemarketers to turn around and try to fight for rights to call us citizens again. We said "No" once and we will say it again! "No thank you". It can't get any more clear than that. No household should be subjected to their privacy rights. This would be unconstitutional. I feel there is no argument. It should not even be considered as an issue. This is solicitation and if it's not acceptable in general businesses it is certainly not acceptable in the sanctity of people's homes!
